The Cullom-Davis Library Art Collection (Bradley University)

About this collection

The Cullom-Davis Library at Bradley University holds a growing collection of art in diverse formats and media currently numbering over two hundred pieces. Ultimately, these works are the property of the University but they have been placed in the care of the Library. The collection does not circulate to individuals or to off-campus venues but individual pieces may be loaned to other areas of the campus provided there is an agreement to put them on public view. Not all works are displayed at any given time; those not on loan or on exhibition may be in storage.

The collection began in 1959 when a collector donated two paintings and has grown since then through gifts of additional artwork from alumni, faculty, students, and Friends. Most pieces date from the second half of the twentieth century but a few are older including: Geva Curko's The Water Carrier painted in 1923; a marble bust of Abraham Lincoln by Fritz Triebel dating back to about 1880; and a portrait of Samuel Johnson by Joshua Reynolds done in 1778. Although there are some paintings by prominent contemporary artists such as Gustav Likan, Ken Hoffman, and Theo Tobiasse, the emphasis is on regional artists including some who have attracted a wider audience like sculptors Nita Sunderland and Preston Jackson.

While much is already known about some items in the collection, the information about others is incomplete. Anyone who can supply additional details is urged to call 1-309-677-2822 or email specialcollections@fsmail.bradley.edu.

 A watercolor painting of a rural landscape. In the foreground, a small stream flows through a field of tall, golden-brown grass. Several sheep are grazing in the field. In the background, there are large, leafless trees and a wooden building, possibly a barn or farmhouse, partially obscured by the trees. The overall tone is warm and autumnal.

The screenshot displays a digital viewer for a book. On the left, a sidebar contains a search bar and a text area for the front cover. The main area on the right shows a large image of the book's front cover. The cover features the title 'THE LIFE AND WORK OF TITUS M. JOHNSON' at the top, a large map of Africa in the center composed of many small photographs, and the authors 'Sigurd F. Westberg' and 'Frances J. Mason' at the bottom. The spine of the book, visible on the left edge of the cover image, has the title 'DEEP TRACKS IN AFRICA' written vertically. At the bottom of the viewer, a horizontal bar shows a series of thumbnails for the book's pages, from the front cover to page xiv, with the total page count of 197.

Additional changes to the user experience

- RESTful URLs: the background architecture of the site uses RESTful URLs
 - Easier to link to an individual item, search results, or home pages.
 - More likely to have a longer lifetime and be more resistant to change as technology changes.
 - Don't contain references to underlying technology (things like “.php” or “.htm” don't appear, nor do “?” or “&” with Web parameters)
- Index Pagination (beta): improves search results for Compound Objects
 - Creates a new index that puts the full text from each page of a compound object into a single index record for that object.
 - Should improve findability of data in the full text fields of a compound object.
- For a full list of changes and updates, see the Release Notes section at:
 - <http://www.carli.illinois.edu/products-services/contentdm/cdm-upgrade>

Web Administration: metadata field properties updates

- Several controlled vocabulary have been updated:
 - AAT; CSH; TGM I, Subject Terms; MeSH; TGN; and ULAN
 - LCSH is still not being provided ☹️
- 13 additional Qualified Dublin Core fields are supported:
 - Accrual-Method, Accrual-Periodicity, Accrual-Policy
 - Audience-Education Level
 - Date-Accepted, Date-Copyrighted, Date-Submitted
 - Identifier-Bibliographic Citation
 - Instructional Method
