00:23:22 Gail Heideman: How does using those command line options differ from using the drop down boxes?

00:35:41 Gail Heideman: That is helpful. I forget that open up the different boxes to see more options.

00:57:43 Gail Heideman: Is that the part where she was talking about the 4-letter code?

01:00:52 Tammie Busch: Susan and I will be putting together a survey to gather feedback on what attendees would like more reviews of. Stay tuned!

01:13:30 Lori Thompson: Resolution?

01:24:26 Brent Eckert: Whole phrase searching can be used with other indexes. There is an example in the OCLC documentation of a personal name whole phrase search (pnw=)

01:26:20 Ruth Lindemann (she/her/hers): can you drop that link?

01:27:32 Melissa Zilic: The whole phrase search options are also in the drop down

01:27:59 Laptop Loaner: Yes, indeed. Thanks for mentioning this!

01:28:17 Ted Schwitzner, CARLI (he/him/his): We'll be sure to share the slides with the recording.

01:36:41 Gail Heideman: What are the pros and cons of carrying over fixed fields for a derived record?

01:36:48 Lori Thompson: To be considered full level, does every field in derived record need to be filled in?

01:38:14 Lori Thompson: That makes sense

01:42:51 Gail Heideman: I wish I had a proofreader! Though I like that OCLC does some of that for me

01:43:08 Laptop Loaner: Do you proofread the same day or wait a few days?

01:44:12 Lori Thompson: All mine have been answered. Thank you all!

01:44:25 Ruth Lindemann (she/her/hers): Thank you!

01:44:34 Tammie Busch: Thanks Jackie and Susan!

01:44:44 Stephanie Fletcher: Thanks all!

01:44:49 Gail Heideman: Thank-you all so much! It was so helpful

01:44:58 Lauren Noel: Thanks so much!
